Dr. Sylvia Artmann Releases Book Called to Teach: A Guidebook for the Journey

Dr. Sylvia Artmann, professor emeritus at Dallas Baptist University, recently released a book entitled Called to Teach: A Guidebook for the Journey. The book is written for individuals who have decided to teach in some capacity but have not received standard teaching certification or training.

Throughout the text, Dr. Artmann details information on developmental expectations for children from ages three through ten years of age, along with the latest research on methods of effectively engaging children in a variety of curriculum experiences that will help produce lifetime learners.

Finding inspiration from scripture, Dr. Artmann emphasizes that any effective teaching method must relate to children as God created them, relying on the fact that all truth is God's truth.

Dr. Artmann taught kindergarten in the Dallas Independent School District and seventh and eighth grade Language Arts in the Midlothian ISD, before serving as a professor of education at DBU from 1976 until 2004.

She has her Ed.D. in early childhood education from the University of North Texas and her Master of Arts in Early Childhood Education from Texas Woman's University.
